

	Giulia Paola Di Nicola, Donna difendi la tua maternità (Woman, defend your maternità), Coop. Zilli, Teramo 1981 Written in occasion of the debate on abortion, this little book faces the issue of abortion from the point of view of the child and of the woman, being they two in one flesh. Often abortion is a violence that a woman acts on herself, enduring the influence of an indifferent society, perhaps just of her partner, of relatives and friends who abandon her. Sometimes these people judge a woman ignorant to accept a child if she has already two or three babies. Found in the book are also some meaningful testimonies of women who saved the new life rising in themselves and, in doing that, they saved also themselves.
© Author's Copyright  € 5  For Information:  mail@prospettivapersona.it  Payment Modality: Mark with a Debit of €3 for shipment	INDEX  Premise  Testimonies  A life saved in extremis  The face of Providence  A woman who aborted speaks  I am happy not to have had an Abortion. Today I have a lovely child. I changed my desire for vengeance into love.  Two children who did not have to be born
	Problems  Abortion: free for women?  Abortion: one defeat for women  Woman, defend your maternity  Yes to life  Taking one's own responsibility