

G. P. Di Nicola (a cura),
Cittadini e città. Vivere a Teramo,
Demian, Teramo 1994

This book edits a search carried out in 1993/1994 on relationships between citizens and citizenship in Teramo. It is at the same time an empirical survey and an expression of love for the author's town. It reports opinions, critiques and appraisals of citizens on services, urban set ups, administration and social life. G.P. Di Nicola coordinated a team of students who questioned people on the state of a single sector (hospital, University, Hygiene, culture, transport and traffic, trade unions...). They collected views of people about administrators thanks to a questionnaire taking into account the optimization of relationships between elected representatives and people. They interviewed citizens who think that the main problems are drugs, unemployment, and lack of parking and of pleasant public parks.

They think that people are opportunists because they'll choose a party that suites their own interest, while personally they claim to support a party with ideals such as honesty and good administration. The ideal mayor should be an honest, able, expert, coherent person.
